MAOY HIGH SCHOOL: MANUAL TRAINING FOE GIRLS. 1089 pupils what is meant by draft, and to give them an understanding of some of the fundamental principles of molding. Then several weeks are spent in pattern making, followed by more practice in the foundry. The course in sheet-metal working includes soldering, wiring and many others of the processes of tinsmithing and sheet-ironworking. Tliird year. --The six periods a week during the first half-year are spent in forging, the ten periods the second half-year in chipping, filing, fitting and machine tool work. The former begins with exercises in drawing, bending, upsetting and welding and ends with ornamental wrought-iron work and hardening and tempering steel; the latter begins with chipping and filing cast iron, wrought iron, malleable cast iron, steel and brass, and ends with exercises in turning, milling, planing and drilling iron and steel and the construction of some small piece of machinery. Throughout the entire year occasional illustrated talks are given on subjects suggested by the work in hand. Fourth year. --In the fourth year several options are given the pupil. He may continue in machine tool work, do advanced work in pattern making or cabinet making, or he make take a course in wood-carving or clay-modeling. In fact. with the consent of the professor of manual training and the principal of the school he may elect any one of the advanced courses given in the Macy Manual Arts Building, the work of which he is...
