Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Descriptive Account of the Building Recently Erected for the Departments of Natural History of the United States National Museum The architects of the building were Messrs. Hornblower Mar shall, of Washington, while the heating, electrical and ventilating equipment was designed and installed under the supervision of Prof. S. Homer Woodbridge, of Boston, Mass. The building construction was, by designation of Congress, directed by Mr. Bernard R. Green, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds of the Library of Con gress, whose experience especially qualified him for successfully carrying out this large and somewhat novel undertaking. In the preparation of this paper, the writer has been dependent upon others for most of the technical descriptive matter incorporated, which was submitted to him in the form of two detailed reports, preserved in the office files. One of these, by Mr. James Millar, for merly of the architects office, covers the structural details of the building. The other, relating to the mechanical equipment, is by Mr. C. R. Denmark, an assistant of Professor Woodbridge during its installation and at present in charge of its operation, as engineer of the Museum.
